EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 33:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every one of us shall give an account of himself to God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Warning.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Warning.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Does God Take Note of My Life?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Individual Accountability to God.

I. Ezekiel's Responsibility (vv. 1-9).

The commission of the prophet is now renewed. Hitherto his utterances were mainly of a threatening character, having as their objective the turning of the people from their wicked ways. They refused to heed the prophet's words, the result of which was the failing of God's judgment upon them in their complete captivity and the destruction of Jerusalem. When it became clear that the people would not heed God's warnings through the prophet, the prophet was to be silent—dumb. This tragic situation was portrayed through the death of Ezekiel's wife. Awful as this blow was, he was to desist from weeping, showing that even natural sorrow was not to be expressed at the time of God's awful judgment.

After the renewal of the prophet's commission, his messages were mainly consolatory. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. God gave him this position. Every minister and Sunday School teacher is a watchman. Indeed, upon every believer has been imposed certain responsibilities. Two things are required of a watchman.

1. To hear the word at God's mouth (v. 7).

The source of the message of every minister and Sunday school teacher is God's Holy Word. As the prophet did not originate his message but received it at God's mouth, so should it be with every minister.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7).

After hearing God's message he was to proclaim it to the people. The watchman's duty is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner (v. 8). After the warning the sinner carries his own guilt (v. 9).

II. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God had declared in His word that unfaithfulness on the part of His people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," to "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:38, 39).

In view of this pronouncement, some were disposed to say that their case was hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair, the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from his way and live. Regardless of what their past had been He assured them that the future was bright, but God's command and plea is, "Turn ye from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O house of Israel?"

III. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God has created the members of the race as volitional beings, possessing freedom of choice. They have moral discernment, enabling them to distinguish between right and wrong. The following principles govern the sinner and the watchman:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12).

When a righteous man turns to do iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv 13-14)

By virtue of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's mercy and enabling grace are such that if the sinner repents, God will restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16).

The proof of penitence is that so far as possible the sinner make amends for wrongs done. There is no merit in the act of restitution, but such act helps the individual to overcome his besetting sin.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17, 20).

God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of its father. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

On the Job

While Moses was caring for the sheep God's great commission came to him. If God has any great thing for us to do, we need not fear that He will miss us because we are busy with our common tasks.

Belief in Jesus Christ

The condition of salvation is that kind of belief in Jesus Christ which authenticates itself in repentance for the past and in amendments of life for the future.—L. L. Noble.

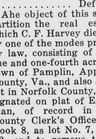
An Oklahoma Mother Says:



"BLACK-DRAUGHT is a fine medicine to give to children. I use it for mine whenever I need to give them a laxative. They don't mind taking it when I make it into a tea, and it quickly relieves constipation and the bad symptoms which come from it. I can recommend it to other mothers, for I have found it useful in my home.

"When I was a child my mother gave it to me whenever I complained of not feeling well. I have always taken it for upset stomach and constipation. It is about the only medicine I have to take. A few doses of Black-Draught, now and then, keep my system in order. My husband takes it, too. I hardly see how I could keep house without Black-Draught. It has become a standby with us, in keeping the children and ourselves well."—Mrs. Luther Brassfield, Claremore, Okla.

LUMBER BARON AT 27, RECORD OF AVIATOR

Soldier of Fortune Develops 10,000-Acre Tract.

Iron River, Mich.—Aviator at seventeen, soldier of fortune at twenty and lumber baron at twenty-seven—that is the career of W. Kent Rideout, son of W. A. Rideout, Oshkosh, Wis., and clerk for the Patten Lumber company at Amasa, Mich. He left May 21 for Panama to harvest nearly 1,000,000,000 feet of mahogany and Santa Maria lumber on a 10,000-acre tract deeded to him by a grateful Panama government.

After vain efforts of several years to convince capitalists that his story was not a pipe dream Rideout has been financed by the Patterson-Weis company, Pensacola, Fla., which has ordered monthly shipments of 1,250,000 feet of timber.

Kent's life for the last ten years has been crowded with adventure which reads like a tale by Richard Harding Davis. When he was barely seventeen he enlisted and became a combat pilot in the A. E. F. Once he landed safely beyond the enemy lines after his gas mask had been shot from his face. On another occasion a machine gun sprayed lead into his left leg and splintered it so badly that a metal shaft was used to replace a bone.

Soldier of Fortune.

The youth reveled in the risk of his eagle days. The armistice was scarcely two weeks old when he signed with the Peruvian government as aviation instructor. After nine months in Peru at a daily stipend of $50 in gold he served in the military forces of the Argentine republic. Then he turned prospector in South America for gold, oil an silver

When Panama marshaled its military forces in 1922 to settle by force the frontier dispute with Costa Rica he hastened northward with an American companion, scenting gunpowder, and was commissioned a lieutenant-colonel in the army of the Panama republic. Meanwhile United States marines had been dispatched to intervene and the military plans of Panama collapsed when its forces came face to face with the marines.

Prevented by the United States government from paying the two American officers in money, the republic offered tax-free timber and mineral grants. Kent, coming from a family of lumbermen, chose timber and received a deed to 10,000 acres near the Pacific coast. He added to his holdings by taking an option on more accessible timber land and induced an older brother to assist in exploiting it. When he returned from the timber company to the headquarters office he found that his brother had taken sole title to the new holdings.

Hunt for Backing.

Kent returned to the United States to interest capital in his original grant, but the fanciful story and his evident poverty won him indifferent attention and many laughs. A Texan offered $15,000 for a controlling interest but Kent scoffed at the overture. An advertisement in the American Lumberman brought inquiries, but the inquiries lost interest upon hearing Kent's seemingly wild tale.

The youth worked for several Wisconsin and Michigan lumber companies to earn a living, and his father took up the hunt for capital.

Several months ago the Pensacola firm investigated the claims of Kent's father and sent a man to Panama to check the validity of the deeds. Finding them legal, the company agreed to finance a $300,000 corporation. The Rideouts received a $150,000 interest for development and will be permitted, as the profits grow, to repay the company and re-ain full control. The Patterson-Weis company is entitled to all shipments of lumber for five years at $75 a thousand feet at the Panama dock and monthly shipments must not fall below 1,250,000 feet.

France Grants Asylum to War Foe's Widow

Paris.—By a special act of the ministry of the interior, Zita, last of the Hapsburg empresses, has been granted the same asylum in France which is granted to any other foreigner who lives up to the laws of the republic and does not engage in political intrigue.

The French government considers the ex-empress of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy not in the light of a widow of a ruler once at war with the allies, but as a sorrowful mother who is trying to educate her children. Investigation disclosed that Zita was not engaged in politics and, therefore, was entitled to residence in France if she chose to live here.
